

February Infant Newsletter

Welcome to February! We would like to say Happy Birthday to Evelyn! She will be moving into Yearlings this month. We know she is going to do great in her new room. We will miss her! We would also like to welcome Lyla and Myla to our classroom. We have so many new faces these past few months. We are so excited to get to know your babies. 😊

Important dates:

- Pizza 3, 9, 17, 23
- Groundhog Day 2nd
- We are CLOSED for President's Day 2/20
- Owl Show 2/2

Here are some important reminders:

- Please bring in your child's binkies, bibs, sheets, etc. and place them in their bins in the classroom. This is to avoid Nina and I going into your bags in the hall and searching for things. Please place your child's sheet in the appropriate crib at the beginning of their school week. You do not have to put it on the mattress just in the crib. Again, this avoids an extra step for us going through bags in the hall. Thank you!! 😊
- We have many new babies starting. Please put all initials or name on everything you bring for your child to school. This avoids things going home to the wrong families. We cannot give food and/or breastmilk bottles to babies that are not labeled in the fridge. We have dish washer safe tape provided on our cork board outside our classroom. We also have many sharpies provided in the classroom for you to use quickly to label for those busy mornings.
- If your baby is starting to stand on their own, please bring in shoes. This will help them practice balance with shoes on. It is also good to get them use to shoes for the next room, as well.
- If you want your baby to start finger foods, Nina and I have brainstormed together and came up with a great list that we can give you for ideas on what to give your child. 😊
- If you haven't already, please bring in a family photo for our family tree.

As always, please come to Nina and I with any concerns or questions. Our communication is key with you! We want your baby to have fun at school and grow with each other over this next year! 😊
